

Newspapers include both news articles and feature articles. News articles provide the most important details of the story. Feature articles can have different purposes: to persuade, to present an opinion or a point of view, to tell about an experience, to inform, or to teach.